

Free Demonstration with Ceramic Artists Kelly and Kyle Phelps

2nd Saturday, March 11th, 2017
10:00 AM - 3:00 PM

Kyle Edward Phelps and Kelly Eugene Phelps (identical twin brothers) received their B.F.A.s from Ball State University in 1996. They earned their M.F.A. (2000) degrees in Ceramics and Sculpture from The University of Kentucky. The twin brothers studied under professor Bobby Scroggins, Jack Gron, Arturo Sandoval and Garry Bibbs. During the spring of 2001, immediately after graduate school, Kyle along with his identical twin brother (Kelly Phelps) began to pursue careers in academia as members of the fine arts faculty at the University of Dayton. Kyle Phelps is an Associate Professor of Art and head of the Ceramics area. Kelly Phelps is now the head of Sculpture at Xavier University located in Cincinnati, OH. Kyle Phelps along with his twin brother, Kelly, were awarded tenure and promotion in 2008. In the spring of 2010, both Kyle and Kelly were awarded their first sabbatical to conduct research and produce a body of work about the modern plight of the blue-collar worker in the United States.

Kelly and Kyle will be offering demonstrations and insights on their creative and making processes throughout the day, with an introduction by past president of NCECA and former executive director of Baltimore Clayworks, Deb Bedwell

*Free Demo***

*No Signup Needed***